

Announcing a unique professional development opportunity for family and consumer sciences teachers, particularly those new to or returning to the profession!

2005 Family and Consumer Sciences Summer Institute:
"Curriculum Development and Enhancement"

The Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, Family and Consumer Sciences Education section is pleased to offer a 3-day Summer Institute designed to assist family and consumer sciences teachers with curriculum development and enhancement. The Institute will include hands-on sessions and activities, with participants developing materials/resources for their local programs and curriculum. The Institute will focus on the following topics:

- Implementing critical thinking and developing process skill strategies*
- Infusing reading and writing skills into instructional strategies and assessments*
- Utilizing computer-based technology to support instruction*

Institute Presenters: Dr. Wanda S. Fox, Associate Professor, Department of Curriculum & Instruction, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana; and Charlotte Mohling, Family and Consumer Sciences Instructor, Wessington Springs High School, Wessington Springs, South Dakota

Dates and Times: Begins Wednesday, June 1, 1:00 p.m.-Concludes Friday, June 3, 2:00 p.m. (Includes evening sessions on Wednesday and Thursday. A detailed agenda will be mailed with registration confirmations.)

Location: All sessions will be held in the James C. Kirkpatrick Library at Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg

Cost: There will be no cost to participate in the Institute other than travel to and from Warrensburg and any additional meals not provided. Lodging for Wednesday and Thursday evenings will be provided at the CMSU Conference Center and/or the University Inn in Warrensburg, depending on numbers registering. Participants will be housed two in a room at both locations.

One (1) hour of graduate or undergraduate credit for the Summer 2005 semester may be obtained through Central Missouri State University, or participants may elect to receive CEU's (continuing education units) for their participation. No additional follow-up or assignments, besides participation in all 3 days of the Institute, are required to obtain the graduate or undergraduate credit and CEU's. Participants will be responsible for the cost of the credit or CEU fees. Fees are $80.00 for one (1) hour of credit (graduate or undergraduate). The fee for CEU's is $20.00. Enrollment and payment for credit and CEU's will take place during the Institute.

Since this curriculum inservice is being provided at no cost to participants, those attending will be expected to attend all three days of the Institute, as well as a follow-up session planned for Institute participants sometime in the 2005-06 school year. Institute participants also agree to assist with a presentation on information covered in the Institute during a state-sponsored professional development activity or conference; i.e., the 2005 Missouri Family and Consumer Sciences Regional Workshops or the 2005 or 2006 Missouri ACTE summer conference. Depending on number of applicants, enrollment in the Institute may be limited to one participant per school.

To apply for the Institute, complete the form below and return it to the state office. Applications must be received no later than May 6th to be considered. Confirmations will be sent to participants with a final agenda and more information in early May. If you have questions about the Institute, contact Debbie Pohl at debbie.pohl@dese.mo.gov or by phone at 573-751-7965.
